Lovely Mary Donnelly. (The following exquisite ballad is the composition of Wm. Allingham, one of the late garland of British poets the year has produced:)

Oh, lovely Mary Donnelly, it's you I love the best! If fifty girls were round you, I'd hardly see the rest. Be what it may the time of day, the place be where it will,

Sweet looks of Mary Donnelly, they bloom before me still. "Her eyes like mountain water that's flowing on a rock. How clear they are, how dark they are! and they give me many a shock.

ked rowans warm in sunshine, and wetted with a show'r,

"Her nose is straight and handsome, her eyebrows lifted up, Her chin is very neat and pert, and smooth like a china cup, Her bair's the brag of Ireland, so weighty and so fine,

It's relling down upon her neck, and gathered in a twine. 'The dance o' last Whit-Monday night exceeded all before, No pretty girl for miles about was missing from the floor; But Mary kept the belt of love, and oh but she was gay! She danced a jig, she sung a song, that took my heart away.

When she stood up for dancing, her steps were so complete, The music nearly kill'd itself, to listen to her feet; The fiddler moan'd his blindness, he heard her so much

But bless'd himself he wasn't deaf when once her voice she raised.

And evermore I'm whistling or lilting what you sung, Your smile is always in my heart, your name beside my tongue; But you've as many sweethearts as you'd count on both your hands, And for myself there's not a thumb or little finger stands.

Oh, you're the flower of womankind in country or in town, The higher I exalt you, the lower I'm cast down. If some great lard should come this way and see your beauty

And you to be his lady, I'd own it was but right.

The Brain of Negroes.

Camper, Cuvier, White, Mons. St. Vincent, Soemerring, and some others, by measuring the skulls of a few negroes, and their degree of facial angle, have supposed that they were vastly inferior to the whites in mental capacity. Later ethnologists have proved that little dependence can be placed on the facial angle, or even on the outside measurement of the skull, as a test of the volume of the brain. That Cuvier and others were somewhat mistaken, is clearly proved by Professor Tiedman, of Heidelberg, who has published a paper in "The Philosophical Transactions," in which he gives the results of his measurement of the cavum cranii, The blessed sight-the sacred charge, for which which is the hollow portion of the skull containhe had sought so long, was at length granted to ing the brain.
